Re: Hurricane Harvey

Dear ExxonMobil Chemical Polyethylene Customer:

In preparation for Hurricane Harvey, ExxonMobil activated its hurricane preparedness plans including the safe and controlled shutdown of some of our Gulf Coast facilities. The hurricane/ tropical storm continues to slowly move across the Gulf Coast bringing heavy rains.

We are working diligently to fully assess the impact of the storm on our entire operations, including raw material supply and finished product shipments. As a result of Hurricane Harvey, we expect there will be shipment delays and supply disruptions including the possibility of allocation of certain products. In the next few days as product availability and shipment status becomes clearer, your ExxonMobil Chemical Polyethylene Sales Representative will contact you to review specific orders that may be impacted.

We are committed to communicating in a timely manner as new information becomes available. Our top priority as we work through this historic event continues to be the safety and well-being of our employees, contractors, and the impacted surrounding communities. In the meantime, thank you for your patience during this period.

Please contact your ExxonMobil Chemical Polyethylene Sales Representative if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
